

SELFguarding Newsletter No: 6

Tuesday 18th of July 2023

Happy new month from SELFguarding!

Well what can I say other than with the coming up of the school's holidays, SELFguarding has had a quiet month.

During our quiet time we have managed to send out letters to every School in east London (City of London, Greenwich, Hackney, Haringey, Islington, Lambeth, Lewisham, Newark and Southwark) to help us on our journey into building SELFguarding awareness – and to get schools to sign up to SELFguarding in the new academic year.

On a related note, I hope you all enjoyed our feature on Education Today. In case you missed it, here's the link Education today.

What's next? you may be asking for SELFguarding. Well, our next step is to continue to build and update our website, which I am very excited about. And we'll be following up on all those letters we sent out to schools, this month.

To wrap up this Newsletter, I would like to ask you all to please continue to spread the word about SELFguarding and to tell schools about us. We're all helping to protect children together, so remember you can find us on IG @selfguarding and @ www.selfguarding.co.uk

Once again thank you all for your support.

Look forward to updating you all again soon.

Take care from
